"A. B. A." Cheques smooth the way of the tourist by furnishing him with a means of carrying his money that is at once entirely safe and exceedingly convenient.

"A. B. A." Cheques are safe, because if not countersigned, they are of use only to the original purchaser, and if lost or stolen, may be replaced upon proper application.

They are convenient, because they are readily accepted by hotels, railroads, auto supply dealers and the best merchants, and are cashed by 50,000 banks and because the only identification needed is the countersignature of the owner in the presence of the person accepting the Cheques.

JAMES COFFEY, A PIONEER OF THIS CITY IS AUTO VICTIM

(Special to Record-Herald)

SAN DIEGO, May 15.—One Richmond man was instantly killed and another seriously injured in an auto crash near Atay last evening.

Dead — JAMES COFFEY, hotelman, Richmond, Cal.

Injured — HARRY IVORY, Standard Oil employee, Richmond, Cal.

The men were riding in the Tia Juana sightseeing bus which crashed headon into a private touring car. Both machines were speeding. Coffey was identified by a reporter for the Associated Press by a railroad ticket purchased at Point Richmond. His skull was fractured and his back broken in two places. Ivory was picked up unconscious and taken to the Casa Grandes hospital at San Diego. He may live.

Police headquarters received a telegram today verifying the press dispatches of last evening as to Coffey's death. "James Coffey of Richmond killed in auto smashup. Wire particulars immediately. Johnson and Ben Bolt."

AD MEN MOBILIZE

Now the publicity resources of the country are being assembled for notional defense. The "ad men" have got on the job. And in view of the well know character of their profession, there need be no doubt about the United States being put in a proper state of industrial preparedness—which is what these hustlers are driving at.

The Associated Advertising Clubs of the World have placed their entire organization at the disposal of the government. They expect to push the plans drawn up by the industrial committee of the naval consulting board of civilian experts. Those plans contemplate the organizing of the nation's industries so that in case of war they will all work together smoothly and effectively.

Every belligerent nation has found that war no longer be wagered without industrial organization. Factories must be trained and ready, as soldiers are. Without their thorough co-ordination there can be no adequate supplies of munitions and provisions at the front. It is purposed to accomplish this co-ordination in time of peace, instead of having to do so in the midst of war as England, France and Russia have done.

The project calls for no great expense, no elaborate preparation or huge piling up of arms and ammunition. The idea is merely to make sure that there will be plants ready to make the needed munitions when called on. For this purpose, every eligible plant will be given very small orders for shells, rifles, powder or whatever it can best produce, and will be held responsible for filling that minimum order regularly. Thus it will have the knowledge and equipment to produce larger orders in case of emergency. There will be no disturbance of industry at all. "It is not really a war measure," say the originators, "but a peace measure."

The advertising men, including expert copy writers, artists and engravers, are undertaking to popularize this plan, "to arouse manufacturers, working men, business men, in fact, the whole country, to the vital need of making industry the basic line of defense." In their campaign they are to have the co-operation of those who control the means of publicity. Newspaper and magizine publishers, poster men, electric sign men and representatives of all sorts of advertising interests have offered to carry the ads without cost to the government. It is one of the finest and most rational ideas yet developed for putting our national house in order. It is said to have the full endorsement of the administration.

Judging from chapter one of the Federal trade commission's gasoline serial, it cannot be recommended to those seeking stuff with thrills in it.

From many quarters come plain intimations that Ford knows how to manufacture other things besides automobiles.

However, the risks in the trade will keep get-rich-quickers from rushing into shipbuilding because one new ship earned its cost in one voyage.

The number recently enlisted seems to indicate that congress will have to do more than order recruiting offices opened to get men in the regular army.

WARNED AGAINST WANDERLUST

If you are thinking of turning hobo for the summer months, think again. A letter to a big eastern newspaper solemnly warns all young men and women with hobo yearnings to resist the temptation while they may.

The thrill of adventure in unknown lands doesn't last long. Work and food are not always easy to procure, and want of them has landed many a would-be honest hobo in jail for committing all sorts of crime from petty larceny to murder. Many hoboes, beating their way across the continent, are killed in accidents. Last year, says a report, 204 dead hoboes paid the penalty for their wanderlust. It is startling to learn that in Kansas alone over 17,000 of the grain harvesters had wandered out from the east.

The desire to get out and "rough it" now and then is a perfectly normal one. Most people enjoy cutting loose from convention and routine sometimes in their lives. But there are more sane and safe ways of exercising this craving than by turning hobo.

Too much of life and character and future happiness is at stake to make this a safe outlet for your adventuresome spirit. Better spend real cash and take a vacation in the woods or mountains. Or learn to spade a garden.

THE SUMMER FURS

Why is a summer fur?

This is indeed one of the sartorial mysteries.

The ladies wear the thinnest of dresses, persumably to keep cool. Peek-a-boo shirtwaists, when condemned for one reason or another, have been vigorously defended because of their comfort. The back of the neck is the most vulnerable spot for heat attacks. Keeping the base of the brain at an equable temperature is one of the essentials of summer satisfaction. And yet—here are the furs in all their glory, and no woman's summer toilet, we are told, will be complete without them.

The ladies who wear them are, of course, the ones with the hot, high shoes. And they are the same who, in December and January snows, went forth in pumps and thin silk stockings, their necks alternately bared to biting winds and muffled to the nose. No wonder last winter saw one of the worst grip epidemics the country has yet experienced.

Far be it from us to injure the business of our worthy friends the furriers. If they feel they must foist their wares on ladies' throats and wrists in July and August, let them do their worst. But are they not a bit short-sighted? If the ladies all die of heat prostration during the dog days—or rather, during the white fox days—who will then be alive to buy next winter's skunk and sables?

Former President Roosevelt has all along averred that he would not be a candidate for president again, except the demand came from a large percentage of the voters of the United States and yet here we find him at this stage of the campaign making an initial expenditure of $20,000 for promotion expenses. Theodore is some four-flusher, all right.

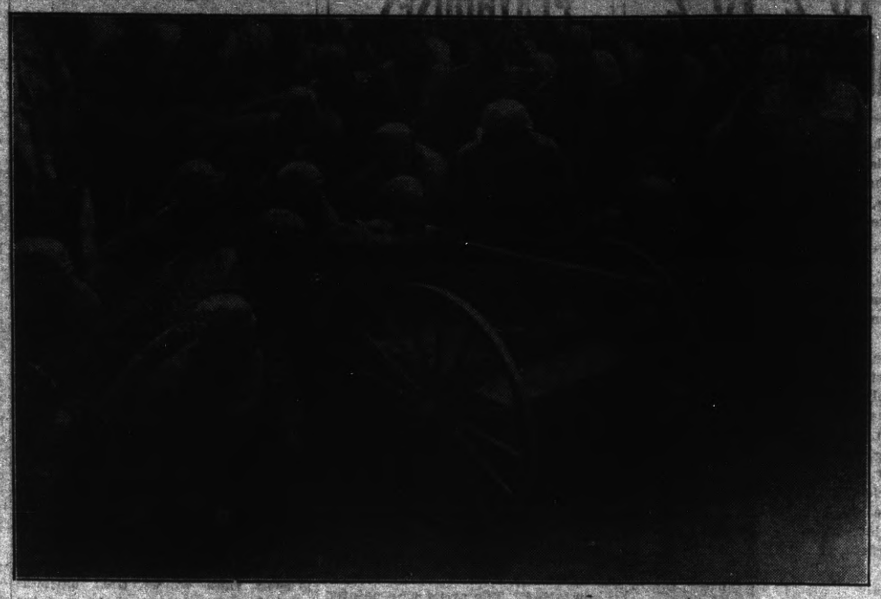
"BATTLE CRY OF PEACE" IS SOUL STIRRING BATTLE FILM; AT RICHMOND THEATRE TONIGHT



It is the duty of America, of Americans, of citizens and patriots to recognize the state of their defenselessness. "The Battle Cry of Peace," which comes to the Richmond theater tonight is a call to arms against war. It is written and produced by J. Stuart Blackburn and is a dramatic appeal for preparedness. It features the distinguished actor, Charles Richmond, and an eminent Vitagraph cast. It is a super picture.

Do you know that complete preparedness is the only insurance against war? Do you know that you and your family are not insured against war? If you are not aware of these several important facts, go to the Richmond theater tonight and see a revellation take place in your view of this great preparedness controversy. If you are against—if you favor disarmament—see the "Battle Cry of Peace." Do you want to learn the truth about our army, navy and coast defencelessness? See "The Battle Cry of Peace."

AT THE REGENT THEATRE

Opium, most deadly of all habit-forming drugs, is wrecking the lives of thousands throughout the country. Despite the government's ceaseless fight to stamp out the traffic, smuggling bands bring valuable consignments to American Chinatowns every month. From these centers, hatchet-faced agents operate in distributing the drug. Here are maintained secret rooms wherein addicts may consume the death-dealing narcotic. The nation-wide fight that is being waged by the government to stamp out the traffic, and restrict the use of opium has been made the basis of an exciting and highly moral photoplay called "Hop, the Devil's Brew," to be shown at the Regent theater. Thrilling scenes abound; exciting combats between government agents and the opium smugglers, actual scenes in Chinatown and "opium raids" by secreta service agents—all these interwoven with an impelling story of love and sacrifice, combine to make "Hop, the Devil's Brew," the greatest of photoplays.

This Bluebird feature will be shown to the patrons of the Regent theater Tuesday.

Tonight episodes number 13 and 14 of "The Broken Coin" will be shown in connection with several other interesting films. Prizes of groceries tonight.

YOU CAN'T ALWAYS "DRESS FOR THE OCCASION"

—IF YOU BUY YOUR CLOTHES ON CREDIT

One costume at a time, no matter how pretty or becoming it may be, never entitles a woman to a reputation for good dressing. Perhaps it's a street suit at the time when she needs an afternoon dress—or maybe it's a fancy dress when she ought to wear a sport suit.

You see, it's necessary to have several stylish outfits in your wardrobe ALL the time. Does that seem difficult, or even impossible, to you? Then you don't know about CHERRY'S CREDIT SYSTEM.

It will cost you no more to buy a quantity of summer clothes this month than it would to get a suit now, a waist or skirt later on, and a sport suit about midsummer. And you'll enjoy wearing ALL of them the whole summer.

You'll enjoy selecting them, too, for CHERRY'S latest displays are exceptionally beautiful, with immense varieties of everything that is fashionable and tasteful. A small payment down will buy anything. Easy weekly or monthly installments pay the rest of the price. Their exclusive shop for ladies' apparel is at 515 13th St., while just across at 528 13th, is where there men's store is located. The San Francisco stores are located at 1009 Market street and 2400 Mission street. Other stores—Tacoma, Portland, Los Angeles and Sacramento.—Advertisement.

BOY SCOUTS AT MOTHER'S DAY SERVICES

A profusion of red and white carnations were in evidence at the Mother's day service at Wesley M. E. church last night. At 7:15, thirty-two Boy Scouts in scout suits took their place in the front pews. By 7:20, twenty minutes before the orchestra began to play, camp chairs had been placed in every available space and every chair was taken. After that scores of people were turned away to swell the crowds at other worship places.

During the evening address Rev. Linder said, "When you become tired of books and theories and dogmas and the multiplication of so-called religions, you may turn away and find in ideal motherhood an evidence of what God is and what man ought to be. When human life reaches the altitude of sacrificial love, it stands on the highest, clearest, eminence of which the human imagination is capable of dreaming.

It seems fitting to add our contribution to the growing public sentiment against the strong, well-do-do woman, who chooses childlessness. The problem of our time is distribution. There are in our country tens of thousands of homeless children. There are also tens of thousands of well-dressed, well-wined, well-dined women, who are childless. The demand is made upon them, in the name of patriotism, in the name of humanity, in the name of the Eternal, to make themselves responsible for these homeless ones who have a right to a home and a mother's love.

A newly drilled team of 120 pounders proved the one bright ray of hope for the Richmond Union high school at the Centerville track meet Saturday. Richmond's unlimited class of athletes were bested in an uphill fight in each event and it was only through persistent fighting that finally landed them in third place. There were no individual stars. The result: Centerville, Haywards, Richmond and Livermore.

ELKS BATTLE MARTINEZ FOR TWELVE INNINGS TO 2 TO 2 SCORE; UMPIRE HAD WEAK ORBS

Umpire Jeff Woods, Father Time and general circumstances were responsible for the Richmond Elks not winning at Martinez yesterday. They had to quit, growls Billy Luce, to catch a train. They had to leave he continues just when the going was getting good, when they had blowed the sterling defense of the court house squad full of holes, when even the old reliable "Pop" Arlett was beginning to weaken and with the score of that game of games tied.

And tied it was if figures can be relied upon for two tallies each.

Not even twelve innings, nor Frank Gordon, nor any of the players can make, force, or cudgel the astute Willyum Luce into believing that he was not robbed of the game and for evidence the genial, gerrymandering Mr. Luce submits as exhibit A, a picture in the window of the Lamoine drug store. The picture—a mere piece of vellum to the average person holds the story of the entire game in Luce's estimation. It shows for one thing that Umps Woods, needs a battery of searchlights, a pair of calipers and sun glasses in his decisions, for cameras sometimes tell the whole truth and nothing but the truth. But this picture, believe us, dear reader shows Eddie Benn, to be safe in that last minute of play in the twelfth frame. It was snapped by Clarence Foote and it presented before a jury of honest god fearing men would in all probabilities result in Mr. Woods being beheaded. So sad was the results of the day that we must cease. The game:

LOCAL REFINERY IS BEATEN BY S. F. TEAM SATURDAY

Nine spectacled, hollow cheeked, pencil pushers, who at first sight looked to be playing hookey from the grave-yard and members of the city office team of the Standard Oil company, slambanged their way to a 4 to 1 victory Saturday over the local refinery squad. The knights of the adding machine and typewriter not only pricked the locals with a sad and disasterous score but nicked his nibs—Charles Burns for six safeties.

NOTES FROM THE PLAYHOUSES

PANTAGES THEATRE (Oakland)

"September Morn," a sparkling comedy of art and the glamour of life in the Quartier Latin of Paris, is the headline feature, if such it can be called, in a galaxy or headline features at the Pantages this week. The Oakland temple of vaudeville has seen many a big bill, and many a famous aggregation of vaudeville talent, but never before in history has it seen anything like the remarkable show of this week.

It is a "laughing show," in Manager Cornell's palace, from the time the Clairmont Brothers open the bill until the big singing feature closes it. It is all life, joy, color and beauty.

September Morn" is a rollicking comedy surrounding the famous painting. The woman who posed for the picture has married a rich soldier—and does not want her stern spouse to know the history of the painting. The artist who painted it is bribed to paint another head on it. He chooses her daughter-in-law—and then the trouble starts.

Clever singing numbers galore are heard in the piece. The posing artist's models are the most shapely bevy of girls ever seen in vaudeville in the west. All the clever principals of the New York cast are in the offering, including Harry W. Fields, whose song "Woman Is a Sparerib in the Butcher Shop of Life," is a veritable riot, Louise De Fogie, and Lorenz Gillett, the clever San Francisco boy who went east to achieve fame.

The Bowman Brothers, who could remain there an hour if the audience had its way, are the big laughing hit of the week. They have songs and sayings, and do both black and white face comedy. They "stopped the show" yesterday at every performance, and already are the talk of the town. It is hard to describe them—for they just make laughs in a manner all their own.

Then there is the remarkable act of Chabot and Dixon. Professor Chabot, (he was a college professor before he became a musical star), is the scion of a family famous in Oakland, and can do more comedy tricks with violin and piano than have ever before been crammed into one man's bag of tricks. Miss Dixon is clever—and "Game"—for last night, despite serious illness, she sang despite the advice of her physician. Her throat is in a bad condition, but no one in the audience realized it. Experts who suspected something wrong only sympathized and admired her grit, for she is an artist as well as a "game" little woman.

Harrison Terry, original Father Kelly of "The Rosary," and Jean Ward, former Selig "movie" star, have a gripping sketch in "The Frame Up," that contains a lively surprise. It is of course faultlessly acted. Lowell and Esther Drew offer a drug store travesty with laugh after laugh in it. This too is a new brand of comedy that cannot help but please. The Clairmont Brothers do daring tricks and comedy on the revolving ladder. "The Iron Claw" is the picture feature.

Are we prepared?

Anyone who doubts it should see "The Mystery of the Submarine," the most remarkable motion picture in the world, that opens next week at the Pantages in addition to "The Iron Claw." This film was taken aboard United States submarines, which are shown in detail. The vessels were loaned by the United States navy, real navy officers operate them, and their story is a gripping one.

ORPHEUM THEATRE (Oakland)

The following story about Manuel Quiroga, the Spanish violinist at the Oakland Orpheum, will be of interest to theater goers:

"Two incidents which I have experienced, one many years ago in an Indian camp and the other in an Orpheum theater, are separated widely by time and place but closely related biologically," recently wrote a Seattle newspaperman. "Let me tell of them just as they happened and allow you to draw your own conclusions and weave about them your own tapestry of thoughts.

"A young Indian mother, a look of sunset contentment on her brown face, sat in the early June sunshine beading a pair of moccasins. Her child, a girl of perhaps four years seemed wholly absorbed in an indifferently successful attempt to make three sticks form the conical skeleton of a miniature tepee. Presently the child, her inherent patience even exhausted, emitted a lusty yelp and kicked the stocks every way. Her mother promptly suspended her beading and, drawing the baby to her side, told her that such doings disturbed the harmony of nature (I am making a free but comprehensive translation). She called the child's attention to the murmur of the stream in its pebbly bed, the melody of birdsong that filled the boughs overhead, the minor note of busy insect life and the sighing of the south wind in the tree tops. Then she pointed out that the musicians in this great orchestra of Nature were sometimes sorely offended by unseemly discords springing from angry mortals and ceased their symphony, meaning, doubtless, that when one is fretful or angry they do not hear these things. The child resumed her play with a happy expression and the mother her work. So much for the manner in which the Indian gains poise in his environment.

"Seated near me in the Orpheum, was a white mother apparently of the well to do class, and a girl of perhaps ten years. The Spanish violinist, Manuel Quiroga, stepped quietly before the curtain and a fine golden thread of melody floated out over the audience. The child near me gave one look at the quiet Spaniard, noted nothing spectacular and proceeded to fidget. She moved in her seat, scraped her feet on the floor, dug her knuckles into the spine of those seated in front, stood up, rattled her program and chattered in a strident whisper to her mother, who paid not the slightest attention.

"At first, I will confess, I was annoyed, then interested. Within a few minutes the child became calmer and gradually ceased her aimless activities entirely as the young musician, by sheer force of artistry, tamed her and brought her elders into breathless, silent attention. He had brought into the theater a voice akin to Nature's own. But I venture to say that no one will tell that child why she heard the voice and there will, by the same token, be many voices which the Indian hears at the source, but which must be brought into our environment by the musician, poet, artist and singer."

LOYALTY TO FLAG SAYS A SUBSCRIBER

Editor Record-Herald: The complaint of the inspector of the Nebraska Normal school noted in your paper of Saturday, that a deficiency of patriotism afflicts the schools there, evinced by a lack of enthusiasm in displaying the national flag, is really pathetic. Why does not some one put him wise to the fact that one of nature's most fundamental laws is that every organism, man included, cannot help being loyal to that which sustains and protects it. Not to do so is to invite a speedy and natural death.

The situation reminds me of an incident I saw on a Richmond street not long ago. A boy of about five years who had evidently already made a reputation for himself was energetically chasing two other boys, flourishing a broomstick and yelling, "Don't you call me bad kid."

Make the flag stand for the people's welfare and they cannot be stopped from being loyal to it. The people are even more dependent on what government should be, at present than when the national symbol was adopted amid popular acclaim. But when it waves over such slaughters of the workers as at Ludlow, when it is carried by uniformed hirelings when they shoot down American citizens for no crime but asking for enough wages to live decently on, when under its folds stolen wealth is defended against the claims of its real owners, it is time to call a halt. The mere fact that any special effort is thought necessary to teach respect for the flag is ample proof that something is wrong. The Stars and Stripes was first unfurled as the emblem of resistance to tyranny. It is the rightful heritage of those who fight for the popular welfare as against the oppression of wealth and power. If it is in the wrong hands, bring it back where it belongs, and there will be no lack of regard for it among the common people.
